'PUTANGI' CONSERVATION

Enjoy a wine that does good

Have you tried our conservation wine? Introducing Wet Jacket's 'Putangi' Pinot Noir and 'Putangi' Pinot Gris, two delicious drops that donate $10 to local conservation projects from every bottle sold. The conservation projects included are either in Pātea Doubtful Sound or Piopiotahi Milford Sound.

Whakatipu Waimāori Queenstown

Proceeds from every 'Putangi' bottle enjoyed in Queenstown go directly toward predator control and native tree planting at Walter Peak High Country Farm. This protected wetland area provides a safe haven for native birdlife, supporting their return to the lakeshore. Funds raised help remove pests and predators that threaten local species and restore the wetland with native plantings, ensuring a thriving ecosystem for future generations.

Wet Jacket

Wet Jacket's founder, Greg Hay, is passionate about conservation in Fiordland and is a trustee for Fiordland Conservation Trust. As well as RealNZ's contribution through bottle sales, Wet Jacket wines donate 50% of their cellar door tasting fees to the projects. It's never been more tempting to enjoy a pinot!

Fun Fact

The name 'Putangi' is particularly relevant for this initiative, as it was the name of the boat used by conservationist Richard Henry. In 1894, he arrived in Dusky Sound aboard the 'Putangi' and spent the next 14 years single-handedly trying to save some of New Zealand's rarest birds, kākāpō and kiwi, from extinction.
