Welcome to RealNZ

We are your southern New Zealand tourism operator, offering real experiences, showing the power of nature, and helping the world fall in love with conservation.

We understand that experiencing New Zealand's quintessential nature is important to your guests. Whether they want to stand beside the thundering waterfalls of Milford Sound, or on the shores of crystalline Lake Whakatipu, our experiences will make them feel alive, reinvigorated, and changed.

Our founders, Les and Lady Olive Hutchins were original champions of this message. In 1954, they began a small tourist company in Fiordland, which would later become RealNZ, and they showed their guests the power of real places and how special New Zealand's nature is. So special, that we, and those who experience it, feel the need to love, cherish and respect it.

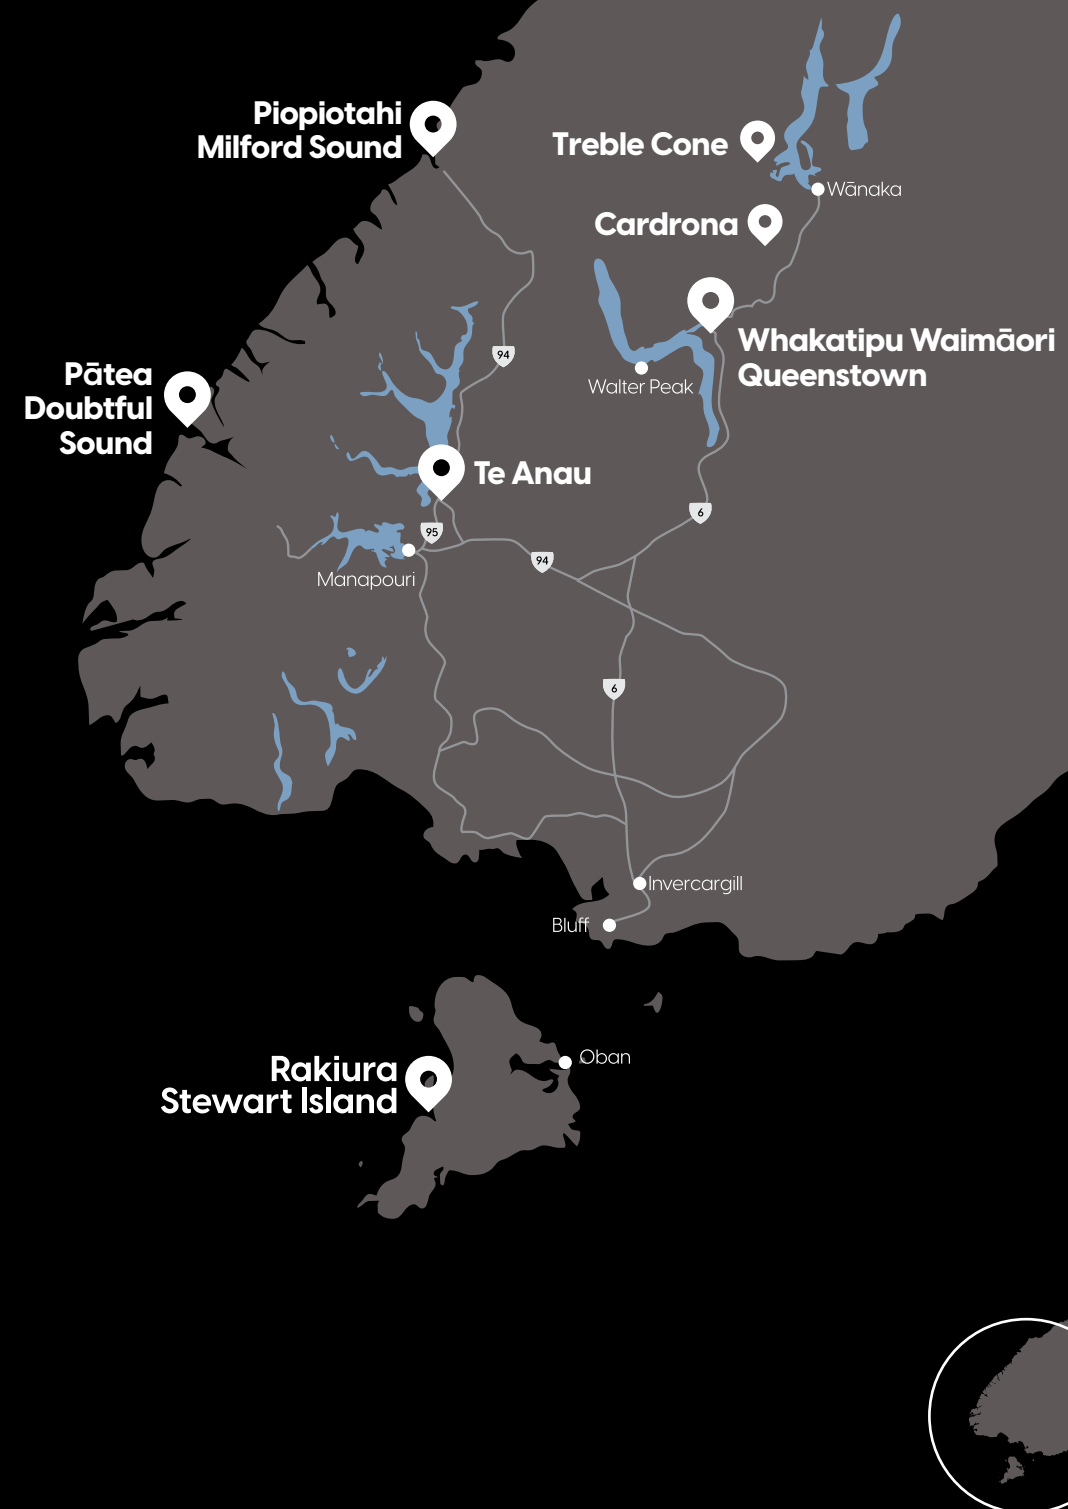

Now, over 70 years later, we're still inspiring people to fall in love with nature in Ata Whenua Fiordland, Whakatipu Waimāori Queenstown, Rakiura Stewart Island, and Wānaka.

Our heritage in these special places enables us to invest more in their futures. We aim to inspire and make real change with our conservation work, leading and supporting a variety of projects, such as restoring land at Walter Peak, eliminating predators on Cooper and Stewart Island, and protecting wildlife in Fiordland.

Our success is measured by guests leaving our experiences feeling alive, grounded, and with love for conserving our natural world. Their experience with us is as real as it gets. Take a closer look and see for yourself.

Doing Real Good

We work closely with both the Department of Conservation (DOC) and our local communities. We contribute significant funds to conservation work, and support a variety of projects, such as trapping, conserving habitats, recovering species, and clean-up initiatives.

As a tourism company, we believe we have a responsibility to help the world fall in love with conservation. While we help our guests understand the importance of conservation, we also implement key conservation projects to help restore and protect New Zealand's natural environment.

RealNZ Conservation Ball

- Our annual black-tie event, where 100% of the ticket price supports critical conservation initiatives
- Since its launch in 2015, the event has raised nearly $664,000, making a significant impact on conservation efforts
- 2023: $175k raised to support the relocation of the Kākāriki Karaka to Pukenui Anchor Island
- 2024: $150k raised for the release of Takahē into the Rees Valley
- 2025: This year, we will be raising funds to protect the critically endangered pukunui (Southern NZ dotterel) on Rakiura Stewart Island

"Putangi" Conservation Wines

- In 2022, we introduced Wet Jacket's 'Putangi' Pinot Noir and Pinot Gris as our conservation wines
- $10 from every bottle sold is donated to a conservation project in Pātea Doubtful Sound, Piopiotahi Milford Sound, or Whakatipu Waimāori Queenstown
- Wet Jacket Wines also donate 50% of their cellar door tasting fees to these projects
- As of February 2025, Wet Jacket Wines have donated $20,668 from their cellar door, and we have sold 7,456 bottles of 'Putangi' wine, donating $74,560

Walter Peak Land Restoration Project

- Almost 90ha of invasive wilding pines were removed and logged to stop them from infesting the iconic Lake Whakatipu landscape
- Wilding pines are considered a major threat to the South Island high country's ecosystem, competing with native plants for sunlight and water and degrading the natural landscape
- Over 21,500 native shrubs and trees have been planted and we continue to restore Walter Peak High Country Farm to its real high-country heritage

Predator Free Rakiura (Stewart Island)

- Our Chief Conservation Officer at RealNZ, Paul Norris, is a co-chair of the Predator Free Rakiura Project
- The group has an ambitious goal to rid the island of introduced predators to help more than 20 threatened species
- The project aims to free Stewart Island of rats, possums, feral cats and hedgehogs, and is one of the most complex projects of its type anywhere in the world
- We also run a trap line at Little Glory/Ocean Beach with a total of 186 traps that have removed 1,417 predators to date

The Kārearea Project

- Led by Cardrona Alpine Resort, this is a long-term scientific study of the health of the 'threatened, nationally vulnerable' Kārearea/NZ Falcon, our only endemic raptor species
- We study and identify breeding pairs, try to capture and band them, and are currently monitoring 24 pairs, with 23 chicks fledged from 14 nesting attempts
- The project has a great deal of community involvement and engagement and has scientific oversight by Parker Conservation, who are experts in native bird species

Plant A Seed

- This project restores and regenerates the mauri (lifeforce) of the mountain by revegetating areas of past earthworks and scars on the upper mountain and returning them to a thriving and biodiverse landscape
- Our focus is planting along the road corridor of Cardrona and Treble Cone, particularly around the shuttle car parks and lower creek areas
- Involves local schools, educating kids on horticulture and kaitiakitanga (guardianship))
- Over 7,200 natives have been planted to date

Season

Dec – Mar

As New Zealand's most popular ski area, there's even more to Cardrona Alpine Resort than the snowy season. When the snow melts in summer, experience the wide-open slopes in a whole different way.

Summer at Cardrona is known for its unique mountain biking and mountain carting experiences. Take on our vast network of downhill trails by bike, polish your skills with lessons, or let professional athletes throughout our summer events provide the entertainment.

If biking isn't your thing, try your hand at mountain carting. Have more fun on three wheels and cruise down our dirt trails on specially designed mountain carts. Cardrona is the only place in New Zealand to offer fun like this and is a great experience for the whole family.

Alternatively, catch a gondola cabin to the top of the mountain and take a relaxed wander through alpine meadows or dial it up and hike through the mountain. Finish with a sit-down on New Zealand's most scenic seat: our very own Cardrona swing.

Local accommodation is also available at The Brownston Wānaka - the perfect place to stay to make the most of summer in the Southern Lakes. The property boasts lake and mountain views, with comfortable modern facilities right in the heart of town.
